Selling Refurbished Items:

You can make a nice income selling "Refurbished" or "Reconditioned" items on eBay. What you need to do is, find out what the hottest selling items are (in electronics) and find these same items refurbished. Many buyers won't care the item is refurbished. Make 100% sure you make it clear in your auction that the item you are selling is "Refurbished" or "Reconditioned."

These are our 3 suppliers for Refurbished products:

- Refurb Depot
- Dell Direct
- USA Notebooks

So what exactly does Refurbished mean? Refurbished is just a fancy term for returned goods. When an electronic product is returned, it is shipped to the factory, where it is inspected thoroughly, restored to original specification (if needed), tested and repackaged for resale. Such items are no longer sold as new, but as "refurbished".

Global Sources Direct

4718 E. Cactus Rd., Ste. 108
Phoenix, AZ. 85032

480-951-4400

<http://www.globalsourcesdirect.com>

Global Sources Direct is a service offered by Global Sources Ltd. (NASDAQ: GSOL) and Trade Sources Inc that provides an additional channel for PowerSellers and small to medium size importers to buy direct from original manufacturers in China at prices usually available only to big importers and at a volume that's suitable for small sellers.

They work on behalf of China manufacturers to help them sell small lots of products to overseas buyers at factory prices! Products range from consumer electronics and general merchandise, to premiums and DIY products. All lots provide unsurpassed opportunities for buyers to resell to stores or individual consumers.

Most products at Global Sources Direct offer tremendous profit potential for re-sale on eBay. Be careful with these prices, however. Be sure to look at the shipping cost from China. This is revealed when you add an item to the cart --but before you have to purchase. On some of these products, the shipping cost almost doubles the price. Nevertheless, there is still room to make money with these goods.
